

A trip to remember

2011 - ENGLAND

19 April 2011

We are amazed how quickly time has flown

Our journey through Southern England - more or less!!

I knew that Heather was greatly improved today when she woke early and asked what I had planned for breakfast. We had packed our cases the night before and after a meagre meal Heather went to bed while I finished the newsletter and cleaned up the van. We gave away our left over food to other campers (including the Vegemite!!). The morning of our last day in England was really lovely with the sun shining. We gave the GPS its head and it directed us along the major roads to the van drop-off point. We had morning tea next to the oldest windmill in UK. We then dropped off the van and took the bus to a hotel near Heathrow airport. Tomorrow is an very early flight to Poland so it's early to bed.
