10 Day Tour of Japan | March 2023 | Heather and Blayze

Reflections

About 28 hours travelling and layover sees us back to a sticky Brisbane. All the travelling went smoothly apart from China Airlines making me pay a second time for seat allocation to ensure Blayze and I were seated together. Another group member had the same issue. Apparently the issue is that if you make a change like this late (read within the window allowed for seat allocation), then your credit card payment may not have gone through ie it is pending. Interesting considering there is no other way to pay. So!!! Just have to make sure that I am now not charged twice.

A big highlight of the trip was as we were flying out of Tokyo, we got the most stupendous view of Mt Fuji backlite by the sunset. It was fabulous.

A great time for bonding time with my youngest grandon. He was helpful, polite and assisted tremendously with little things like how to turn the lights on, use the Mark III toilet setups, find the correct elevator shafts and find our way to the correct paths. I am sure he suffered from a nan hurring him along and wanting him to brush his hair and wear clean clothes. Well, what are nans for?

Next trip is for Lily. I wonder where she will want to go? Canada I beleive!
