Kerryn told us a strange story. Last year a fellow came to have a meal at the restaurant. Kerryn took his order and asked for his name. He gave his name - Nowak. Kerryn told him that she was very familiar with the name. Meanwhile in Brisbane, Siggy and Heather wondered whatever happened to Siggy's cousin (twice removed) who he phoned in Sydney after being told of his presence by the family in Poland. How was Siggy to know that "Pioter" or Peter Nowak, had decided to see more of Australia and just happened to drive through Carnarvon. What a coincidence!!!

We left windy Carnarvon (note the leaning trees) and realized there were real dangers when driving long distances up this way - like limited water, very sparse vegetation, wild animals (like emus) crossing roads and lots of termite mounds everywhere.

We arrived in Exmouth and met up with Janine and boys. The boys were great - we were very impressed with how they have turned out. We were warmly welcomed and quickly warmed to their lovely relaxed family life. Shane was away in Darwin.
